San Francisco Business Times - by Steven E.F. Brown

Health-care consultant business Lumetra won a one-year contract from the Veterans Health Administration.

The contract started Sept. 30 and the VHA can extend it up to four option years if it wants.

San Francisco-based Lumetra didn't give a price in this deal. It will help VHA hospitals with their peer-reviews of various medical services. Peer reviews are an important part of quality management at hospitals and clinics.

The VHA has 152 medical centers and 732 associated clinics.

Linda Sawyer is CEO of Lumetra, which does work in both the public and private sector.
